Climate-Safe California is a set of policies that would allow California to remove more climate pollution from the atmosphere than we emit by 2030 while creating thousands of jobs and repairing environmental injustices. The guiding principles of all Climate-Safe California policies and programs are to be based on the latest science, ensure a just transition for fossil fuel workers, and support climate justice for low-income communities.

Climate-Safe California is composed of many initiatives or program areas. Over the 2020 - 21 fiscal year, much has been accomplished developing, promoting, and implementing Climate-Safe California.

The first step that supporters can take toward more aggressive climate action in California is to endorse Climate-Safe California. As of 6/30/21 we had 1,132 total endorsements, including 89 businesses, 126 nonprofit organizations, and 75 elected officials.

We have also built a coalition of nonprofit organizational partners that work with us to realize components of the Climate-Safe California platform, especially on community energy resilience, setting aggressive targets, and nature-based carbon sequestration.

We have developed close partnerships with our core advisors to do strategic planning and implementation of Climate-Safe California. The current core advisors include California League of Conservation Voters, Local Government Commission, Alliance of Nurses for Healthy Environments, Labor Network for Sustainability, and Carbon Cycle Institute. Another coalition of close partners has formed around our community resilience work and includes Vote Solar, Grid Alternatives, California Environmental Justice Alliance, and Microgrid Resources Coalition.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4b (Cont.) - Program Service Accomplishments

As part of our Community Resilience initiative, The Climate Center staff worked at the California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC) on the 1339 proceedings advocating for new rulemaking to recognize all the values that microgrids offer the grid and the local community, as well as to ensure equity in the development of state regulation and programs. As a result of our advocacy and the work of our partners, the CPUC approved a new decision in the microgrid proceeding on January 12, 2021. While the decision did very little to advance microgrid commercialization as required by SB 1339, it did include $200 million in utility ratepayer funding for a new incentive program to support microgrid development in vulnerable communities. These funds will not be enough to meet the magnitude of the need, but the decision is an important policy step in the right direction.

In September 2020 — after the dramatic lightning storm that ignited dozens of wildfires across California and unleashed a smoke storm that covered most of the state — The Climate Center drafted a six-page Executive Order to address the crisis that California was facing and sent it to Governor Newsom for his consideration. We also contacted the governor's political advisor that same day and briefed him on the Climate Safe-California policy platform. In the following weeks, the governor issued two Executive Orders relevant to climate change, the first to phase out the sale of fossil fuel vehicles by 2035 and the other for significant land and marine conservation and restoration. These were both consistent with recommendations that The Climate Center made to the governor, but still do not go far enough in the face of mounting climate impacts.

In May, The Climate Center hosted a Legislative Staff Briefing on the latest climate science and the need for accelerated climate targets with Dan Kammen, Veerabhadran Ramanathan, Feliz Ventura, Senator Henry Stern, and Ellie Cohen from The Climate Center.

The Climate Center has also produced a report this year entitled Just Transition: A Key Principle of Climate-Safe California, which is a literature review of different perspectives on what constitutes a just transition for fossil fuel workers and how to incorporate this principle more effectively into Climate-Safe California. We also produced a report called Bay Area Greenhouse Gas Emissions Trends which measures and evaluates the greenhouse gas emissions emitted by the nine counties in the San Francisco Bay Area. Finally, The Climate Center commissioned a report from the Carbon Cycle Institute on the potential and need for natured based carbon sequestration for California to meet the more aggressive goals laid out in Climate-Safe California.

The Climate Center staff were also the drivers behind developing Senate Bill 99, The Community Energy Resilience Act, authored by Senator Bill Dodd. When signed into law, SB 99 will require the California Energy Commission to develop and implement a technical assistance and grant program to support local governments in developing
